

ROLAND PARIS CANADA'S BACK – NOW WHAT?

INTERNATIONAL POLICY FOR THE LONG HAUL

UBC students, join us for a discussion on international policy with the Prime Minister's former advisor on global affairs and defence.

Building on the early foreign policy successes of the Trudeau government, how should Canada define and pursue its long-term goals in international affairs? In an era of dramatic global change and rising challenges, old assumptions about Canadian foreign policy may no longer apply. Canada needs to position itself to succeed not in the world that we have known, but in the world that is emerging.

Please come with your questions and ideas.
