

3 APRIL PANEL DISCUSSION:

South-East Asia Ascendant?

So What, and What's Next for Canada?

The third most populous region in the world, South-East Asia has a population that has more than doubled in the last 40 years and one of the fastest growing economies in the world amounting to US$2.6 Trillion. With a fast changing political economy, it bears to ask: how might it affect Canada?

To learn more about the region and hear the answer discussed by prominent academics like Prof Paul Evans and other experts from the Institute of Asian Research, Asia Pacific Foundation, and the University of British Columbia, join us for a 2-hour panel discussion organised by the Centre for Southeast Asia Research (CSEAR).

If you are able, please RSVP through the link provided in the email.
